Morton County Commissioner to attend White House conference

Mandan, ND – Morton County Commissioner, Cody Schulz, will join other county and city leaders from across North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wyoming on Thursday, August 30 for a conference hosted by the White House Intergovernmental Affairs in Washington, D.C.

The White House recently began holding a series of such meetings with county leaders, state-by-state. The day's events are meant to build relationships between federal and local governments, providing a unique opportunity to address issues that affect local citizens.

"The federal government has its responsibility to make policy and provide funding, but it is at the local level where we work to build and maintain roads, provide law enforcement, service local jails and deliver social services," said Schulz. "I am very grateful for the invitation, and hope to address infrastructure issues as well as agriculture and trade policies that directly affect producers in Morton County."

Schulz will also attend a meeting with members of the National Association of County Officials as part of the day's events.

As travel and lodging costs are the responsibility of those attending, Schulz will pay his expenses out of his personal account, so no county tax funds will be used.

Schulz was elected to the county commission in 2012 and is serving his second term.
